INxSQL® (in-sequel) is a complete Distribution ERP solution, which allows you to manage your accounting and financial systems, inventory, sales and purchasing. INxSQL offers simple to highly advanced warehouse operations, including wireless warehouse functions. INxSQL includes advanced features like CRM and document management (for a paperless office) and offers a complete vendor managed inventory (VMI) system, remote sales and EDI. INxSQL is the right solution to help you manage and create an effective and efficient distribution business.

Finally, affordable software has been created for distributors of all sizes and classifications. INxSQL is priced to fit the needs of both small and large distributors and is currently installed in companies with as few as 2 users and as many as 150 concurrent users at multiple locations. Highly scalable, INxSQL will easily handle the needs of your company, whatever its size.

"INxSQL has been a very profitable tool for our business. The software's characteristics have aided us in streamlining operations and helped us to be more productive. We are pleased with INxSQL and endorse their software package."

Chip Smith, President EW Process.

The strategy behind INxSQL is simple – boost productivity and deliver measurable ROI. INxSQL has accomplished this by unifying and strengthening the complete distribution process by seamlessly interfacing INxSQL with Outlook, Excel, and Word. It is focused on a user friendly setup, with rapid access to information, historical data, documents and common sense tools like the ability to set a reminder in Outlook from within INxSQL. INxSQL also simplifies the entire warehouse process, by allowing you to easily pick, pack and ship orders, eliminating costly errors, which in turn, saves you time and money and improves customer service.

By using Microsoft's industry standard SQL server database and Visual Studio, INxSQL delivers a clean, user friendly interface. Regular software enhancements are released to keep your software current, which protects your investment. INxSQL is about support and solutions. With our experienced, ready to serve support team and convenient support hours, we're just a call or click away when you need us.

"INxSQL has helped my company to become more efficient and productive. Switching over to INxSQL was a timely and smooth process. I would recommend INxSQL to anyone in the distribution industry."

Jim Smith, Powers Maryland.
